Cyrus Vance Named Army Secretary

General Counsel For Defense Dept. To Succeed Stahr

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy Sunday named Cyrus Vance, a lawyer and former sailor, as secretary of the Army, succeeding Elvis J. Stahr Jr.

Vance, 45, currently is general counsel for the Department of Defense. He will take over the $22,000-a-year secretary's post when Stahr leaves June 30 to become president of Indiana University.

The appointment is subject to Senate confirmation.

A native of Clarksburg, W. Va., Vance graduated from Yale University and Yale Law School before joining the Navy in 1942. He served aboard destroyers in both the Atlantic and Pacific during his four Navy years.

Counsel To Senate Group

Vance, a tall, spare man, came into government service in 1957 as special counsel to the Preparedness Investigating subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee. He served in that capacity during the subcommittee's inquiry into the satellite and missile programs in 1957 and 1958 and in hearings on the defense program and space activities in 1958.

He acted also for a time in 1958 as consulting counsel for the Senate's Committee on Space and Aeronautics while that group was drafting the National Space Act.

Vance, a Democrat, was brought into the government by Lyndon B. Johnson, now vice president and in 1957 a Texas senator and chairman of the preparedness subcommittee.

Georgetown Resident

Vance will be the third "Johnson man" to hold one of the three top Defense Department posts in the Kennedy administration. John Connally, a former aide in Johnson's office, was secretary of the Navy until he resigned to run for the governorship of Texas. Connally was succeeded by Fred Korth, another Texan and friend of Johnson.

Before taking his present Defense Department post, Vance was a partner in the New York law firm of Simpson, Thacher and Bartlett.

He lives in Washington's fashionable Georgetown section, is married to the former Grace Sloane and they have five children, ranging in age from 13 to 6.

Dutch Kill Two Paratroopers

HOLLANDIA, West New Guinea (AP) — The Indonesians dropped more paratroopers on West New Guinea Saturday and Dutch troops immediately attacked them, killing two and wounding three, the Dutch announced Sunday.

(In Jakarta, the Indonesian news agency Antara said 18 Dutch marines were killed in a clash last Tuesday near Fakfak, West New Guinea. In The Hague, Gen. W. J. Van Dyk, head of the Netherlands Defense Ministry's information department, denied the Jakarta story, saying that so far there had been no losses on the Dutch side.)

The Dutch government Information Service here said an unknown number of paratroopers was dropped Saturday on Vogelkop, the extreme western peninsula of this island. In the clash which followed, the Indonesian commander and another paratrooper were killed and three wounded. There were no losses on the Dutch side, the announcement said.

The landings on Vogelkop followed up drops over the last three weeks near Fakfak, south of Vogelkop, and near Kaimana on the south coast, east of Fakfak.

Yugos Get U.S. Credit

ROME (AP)—Communist Yugoslavia has obtained an additional $7-million credit from the United States for the purchase of 50,000 bales of U.S. cotton, officials said.

Poisoned Jewelry Missing

Jacqueline Frahm, 14, displays a piece of crystalized potassium dichromate (in the tweezers) and some of the costume jewelry she made of crystalized poisons for a science fair exhibit in Los Angeles. Saturday nine pieces of the jewelry were stolen from the exhibit. Jacqueline said she had to handle the crystals with tweezers while fashioning them into necklaces, pins and crosses. Her greatest fear, she said in reporting the theft to police, is that some child may get hold of the jewelry and place it in its mouth.

Evidence Indicates Estes Has Millions Salted Away Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal investigators said Sunday Billie Sol Estes, indicted and legally bankrupt Texas promoter, may have millions salted away in Switzerland and Brazil.

This disclosure came on the eve of Monday's opening of secret hearings by the Senate Investigations subcommittee into the tangled affairs of the young former millionaire.

The hearings and parallel examination of the income tax returns of many persons are aimed at disclosing whether Estes purchased official Washington influence in his fantastically swift rise to great wealth.

Well-informed sources told a reporter there is evidence that Estes may have a fortune invested or deposited in Switzerland. They acknowledge they may never be able to reach it, or even conclusively prove it, because Swiss law forbids the disclosure of any information about foreign investments or bank deposits.

The informants declined to disclose the nature of the evidence. It was learned the FBI, internal revenue agents, the Senate subcommittee and the State Department all are looking into the matter.

Estes is free under bond and the Immigration and Naturalization Service has put transportation firms on notice they will be penalized if they give him passage out of the country.

However, the service explained Saturday that this is a routine procedure with no indication that Estes plans to leave the country.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., disclosed Saturday that his Senate Investigations subcommittee will go into closed sessions to examine data already gathered and perhaps to hear testimony from some out-of-town witnesses.

Public hearings are to start next month in the bizarre case of the 37-year-old farmer-financier who zoomed to great wealth and saw his complex economic empire crash when he was indicted on federal fraud charges. He also faces several civil suits in Texas state courts, one alleging violation of state antitrust laws in his fertilizer business and others filed by creditors seeking to recover money in his fertilizer mortgage operations.

Estes, free now on $100,000 bond, is expected to be among witnesses in the initial sessions Monday or Tuesday.

Bomb Found In Soviet Trade Fair Theater

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Police said they found a time bomb planted in a movie theater at the Soviet Trade Fair early Sunday. A former air force officer, involved in an abortive Amazon revolt in 1956, was arrested and admitted planting it, police said.

Gov. Carlos Lacerda ordered the fair grounds cleared of an estimated 10,000 people Saturday night after police received a tip the bomb had been planted and set to explode at 11:15 p.m. It failed to go off, police said, and they found it in the projection booth of the movie theater shortly after midnight. One report said the bomb's timing device would have set off the explosion in another 20 minutes.

The arrested man was identified as Capt. Jose Lameirao.

By PATRICK MASSEY

LONDON (AP) — An apology went out from Scotland Sunday for the use of Jacqueline Kennedy's signed photograph in a pamphlet publicizing Scottish tweed.

The pamphlet irritated officials at the American Embassy in London. They complained it showed scant respect for the U.S. president's wife to use her picture without permission in a trade promotion stunt.

"If any American company should do this with a picture of the queen it would be regarded as being in extremely bad taste," one official said.

Mrs. Kennedy sent the signed picture to two Scottish weaver women on the Hebrides Island of Lewis, praising them for the beautiful work they did on two lengths of tweed presented to her as a gift from the people of Lewis.

The tweed company employing the weaver women decided to send copies of the photograph to all its departments as a morale booster. The order for copies was given to a firm called Export Drive, Ltd., which normally handles the tweed company's publicity.

In Lewis the tweed firm's sales director, Mary Perrins, explained, "Unfortunately, owing to the absence abroad of the directors of Export Drive and without our knowledge a press release was made of the story."

Mrs. Perrins said she "heartily regrets that it should appear as though it had been intended to make use of Mrs. Kennedy's gracious gesture for advertising."

France Must Play Own Role, De Gaulle Says

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle declared Sunday that France insists on playing its own role in world affairs and will not be led by anyone.

Two former premiers bitterly attacked him for his views. Winding up a four-day tour through the provinces, the president told a crowd of thousands in the city of Limoges, "France has a great international role to play, a great duty toward all men. From all time, it has been ever so."

"To be sure," he said, "we have friends, allies. (France) forms part of the Atlantic Alliance, which is necessary to the free world. But inside this Atlantic Alliance, she intends to be France. She intends to have her own personality, her soul, her action and her policy."

In Paris former Socialist Premier Guy Mollet assailed De Gaulle for showing what he called "America-phobia" — dislike of America — and urged his party to prepare for a possible crisis of democracy in France.

"The chief of state," Mollet told the Socialist National Council, "considers that France can be an ally or a partner, but cannot in any way be subjected to the decisions of another, even to the decisions of organizations she belongs to."

The party leadership adopted a resolution accusing De Gaulle of leading France into an "anti-European and anti-Atlantic" policy. The resolution assailed De Gaulle's position as a move toward isolation and neutralism.

Former Premier Pierre Pflimlin told a political rally near the Swiss border that De Gaulle's ideas of intergovernmental cooperation would shove France back into the 19th century.

Pflimlin, who recently resigned from the Cabinet with four other ministers from his Catholic Popular Republican party, urged France to help build a closely knit political community based on the peoples of Europe as well as the states. He said De Gaulle's ideas would leave the Continent as badly divided as in the past.

Three U. S. Soldiers Wounded By Grenade

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Security measures were tightened in Saigon Sunday after a crude grenade tossed on a crowded sidewalk wounded three U.S. soldiers and eight Vietnamese Saturday night.

Downtown Saigon streets, normally crowded on Sunday afternoon, had only a few strollers. The tables at sidewalk cafes were all but deserted.

It was learned that some restrictions have been placed on both U.S. and Vietnamese military forces in Saigon, but authorities declined to give details.

Reds Claim War Threat Increasing

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The number of U.S. troops in Thailand swelled to more than 4,000 Sunday even as Red Chinese and Soviet newspapers charged the American military buildup here increased the peril of war in Southeast Asia.

U.S. Ambassador Kenneth Young declared U.S. forces will remain as long as the American and Thai governments believe there is a Communist threat to this pro-Western nation.

Young announced the figure of more than 4,000, well along toward the 5,000-man total Washington said will be sent here, and noted the movement still is in progress.

While the Thai government was reported to have decided arriving U.S. forces were sufficient to meet the threat of the Communist advance in neighboring Laos, Young took a different tack.

SEATO Participation Urged

The ambassador told a news conference the United States would like to see other forces from the eight-nation Southeast Asia Treaty Organization sent to Thailand. All other members except France have indicated they are willing to send units if asked.

Gen. Paul D. Harkins, top U.S. military commander in Southeast Asia, completed inspection of the nearly 3,000 U.S. soldiers and Marines already here and said, "They have the situation well in hand."

While the U.S. forces entered Thailand to protect it from any infiltration by Communist forces that swept across northern Laos next door, Peiping and Moscow talked darkly of gathering war clouds.

People's Daily, the official voice of Red China, declared the Chinese people "will not put up with the establishment near China of new U.S. military centers directed against China."

Retaliatory Action Hinted

In similar vein, "Observer," writing in the Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda, asserted the U.S. landing of troops in Thailand may cause retaliatory action from the other side. Articles signed "Observer" usually have the highest backing.

Pravda said "such actions of the United States, signifying interference in the home affairs of Laos, are bound to expand the conflict and will increase the danger of war, not only on the frontiers of Laos, but in all the area of Southeast Asia."

The man on whom the United States pins its hopes for a settlement in Laos, neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma, took an opposite view.

Pausing in Calcutta en route from Paris, Souvanna Phouma said the arrival of U.S. troops in Thailand posed no direct threat to Laos and should not aggravate the Laotian situation.

Sub Decompression Chamber Saves Diver

DETROIT (UPI)—A teen-age scuba diver from Toledo, Ohio, struck by "bends while diving in a quarry, underwent 4½ hours decompression Sunday in a submarine compartment here.

The condition of Richard Brewer, 15, was reported "good" when he left the submarine USS Cero to return to his home.

Brewer was rushed from Toledo by helicopter about 7 a.m. Sunday when doctors were unable to locate a decompression chamber to work bubbles out of the youth's bloodstream.

Brewer suffered the "bends" while diving in the Whitehouse Quarry near Toledo.

Republicans Say Kennedy Fools Public

Administration Bill Makes No Provision For Paying Doctors

WASHINGTON (AP) — While President Kennedy was appealing Sunday for public support of his plan for health care for the elderly, three Republican members of Congress were accusing him of trying to fool the people.

Sens. Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa and Homer E. Capehart of Indiana joined Rep. Thomas B. Curtis of Missouri in centering fire on the fact that the Social Security program sponsored by the administration does not provide for payment of doctors' fees.

Thus, they said in separate but similar statements, Kennedy should not apply the term "medical care" to his program, which is generally opposed by Republicans in Congress.

Hickenlooper accused Kennedy of flying under false colors by plugging his health bill for the elderly as a medical care plan.

Hickenlooper, who heads the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said since the administration's bill contains no provision for paying doctors' fees "it is a fraud to try to sell it to the American people" as a medical care bill.

Capehart, in a statement recorded for radio broadcast in Indiana, said:

"Does this proposal do what they maintain it would do or is it simply something they are trying to sell the elderly people of America, and when once they get to the point where they need the benefits, they'll get no benefits."

Curtis, speaking on a recorded radio interview program MBS "What's the issue?" said:

"It's fooling the people, and particularly the older people, in telling them that this will cover their health costs. They are still going to have to take care of 75 per cent of them."

King Sees Race Barrier Falling

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King predicted Sunday that segregation will be wiped out in his lifetime but he accused President Kennedy of not providing adequate leadership on the U.S. racial problem.

The Negro leader, 33, speaking in a television interview CBS "Washington Conversation," said there still is lingering bitterness in Montgomery, Ala., where he helped win a fight to desegregate the bus system 5½ years ago.

But he said there has been progress in other Southern communities toward the understanding he once hoped would follow the Montgomery struggle.

"Atlanta, for instance. Here is a community where you have many people working in a very determined and passionate manner to adjust to the change that is inevitable," King said.

Looking ahead, the clergyman said:

"I believe segregation will end in my lifetime. It may end sooner than many of us are able to see. I have the feeling that within the next ten years desegregation will be a reality all over the South. That is, the legal barriers will be broken down at least in all of the major urban areas, and this includes the hard-core resisting South."

But he said it would take longer to develop a truly integrated society based on mutual acceptance.

Japanese Paper Drops "Pogo" Comic Strip; Talking Pig Resembles Khrush

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese newspaper announced Sunday it is eliminating temporarily the American comic strip "Pogo" after the Soviet Embassy pointed out that a Russian talking pig in the strip's current episode bears striking resemblance to Premier Khrushchev.

Editor Kimpei Shiba of the English-language Evening News said the embassy did not request that the strip be dropped. The decision to skip the series until the current sequence ends was made because of the newspaper's policy not to use caricatures of heads of state if they are in bad taste, Shiba asserted.

"I want that made very clear," he added. "We would not remove anything just because the Soviet Embassy said so."

"It could have been Khrushchev and it could have been someone else, as for myself, Pogo is one of the cartoons I do not understand."

He said Vyacheslav N. Bounine, Soviet Embassy first secretary, approached the newspaper last week and suggested the similarity between the caricature and Khrushchev. After a study, Shiba said he wrote the Soviet official there is "now no doubt in our minds that the figure of the hog is Khrushchev. We consider it in bad taste."

The editor said the reason for the newspaper's rule on caricatures is that the Japanese are very sensitive about the emperor, and "We take the same attitude toward heads of other countries."

Shiba added he might use portraits of the current Pogo series if no pig is in the strip.

BACK FROM RUSSIA—Robert Webster, who left his home, his allegiance, his wife and two children to defect to Soviet Russia, returns to New York's Idlewild Airport yesterday vowing to "undo the wrong I did." He went to Russia in 1959 to set up a plastics exhibit in Moscow and in October renounced U.S. citizenship. Three months later he changed his mind. Since then he has been attempting to get permission to reenter the U.S., which was granted a few days ago. (AP Photofax)

Guido Actions Assure Decree Rule For Year

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The military-directed government of President Jose Maria Guido declared a long recess for the Argentine Congress Sunday and put all political parties temporarily on the sidelines by ordering them reorganized.

This means Guido will rule by decree for at least a year.

The government announcement said recessing of Congress and calling for new congressional elections next March were necessary to bring the nation out of a financial crisis of the most serious character.

The order for reorganization of all political parties was aimed at getting rid of followers of ex-dictator Juan D. Peron, who scored heavily in congressional and provincial elections last March 18. Their victories set off a crisis that brought the ouster of Arturo Frondizi as president and a virtual military takeover of the government.

Guido's actions also avoided possible resurgence of a political crisis on May 22 when Congress was due to meet to decide whether 47 victorious Peronists should be seated. Guido had previously nullified their victories, along with others in the provinces.

The new order brought howls of protests from political parties, including Guido's own Intransigent Radicals who hold a congressional majority.

All parties will be intervened by the government and a reorganization process set up, apparently to screen out Peronists and others considered unfit by the regime. Elections would be held March 31.

Liz Threatened; Villa Guarded

ROME (UPI) — Elizabeth Taylor has received several letters threatening her life and the lives of her four children, it was reported Sunday. Extra guards have been placed around the villa where they live and on the set of the movie she is making here, the reports said.

A studio spokesman and the newspaper Il Giorno reported she had received several letters but Hollywood producer Walter Wagner would confirm the receipt of only one and said it did not threaten the lives of the children.

Older People Told Support Of Plan Vital

Many Who Oppose Bill Misinformed, Kennedy Declares

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy said Sunday his program for medical care of the aged under Social Security will pass Congress this year, or, as the tide comes in—next year.

The President told a crowd of more than 17,000 at Madison Square Garden — most of them gray-haired prospective beneficiaries of the program — that their own support will be vitally needed to get the plan into law.

The support of the nation's older people is necessary, Kennedy said, "if this or any other type of progressive legislation is to pass."

The crowd at the rally, held to support the medical care proposal, gave Kennedy a more rousing reception than he got at the same arena Saturday night when Democrats gave him a million-dollar "birthday salute." The President will be 45 on May 29.

Referring to a threat of a group of New Jersey doctors to refuse to treat patients under the Kennedy plan if it is passed, Kennedy said, "I know that not a single doctor, if the bill is passed, is going to refuse to treat any patient."

However, the President said he believed he doctors in New Jersey "do not comprehend what I am trying to do."

Mail Shows Many Misinformed

In fact, he added, at least half the mail he has received on the King-Anderson bill, the administration proposal, has been wholly misinformed about its provisions.

He urged that doctors throughout the country write to him, to Welfare Secretary Abraham A. Ribicoff or to the bill's sponsors, Rep. Cecil R. King, D-Calif., and Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., and get a concise explanation of the proposal.

Kennedy suggested this as an alternative to reading the Journal of the American Medical Association, which has violently attacked the King-Anderson bill.

Not all political experts are as sure as Kennedy that the bill will become law. It has been bottled up in the House Ways and Means Committee since last session.

The rally here was the highlight of a nationwide appeal Sunday for support of the bill, through 33 rallies across the nation sponsored by the National Council of Senior Citizens for Health Care through Social Security.

Kennedy said the meeting at the Garden, which brought busloads of the elderly from the metropolitan area and from as far away as Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and the others like it across the country prove "that this is a problem for which the solution is long overdue."

Foes' Arguments Attacked

"This meeting today indicates that the American people are determined to put an end to the challenge which hits them when they are least able to meet it."

Attacking arguments that the medicare program would "sap individual self-reliance," the President said it is his opinion that what saps self-reliance "is to be sick, alone and broke."

In a lighter vein, which brought a laugh from his audience, the President noted that he had paid several visits in the last two days to his sick father, Joseph P. Kennedy, in a rehabilitation institute here.

"He can pay his bills," the President said. "If he couldn't, I would have to, and I'm not as well off as he is."

Kennedy reminded his audience that "what we are now talking about doing, most countries of Europe did years ago."

"In Britain," he added, "They did it 30 years ago."

South African Sabotage Bill Stirs Protests

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Antisegregationists are stirring up opposition to the government's sabotage bill, which comes up in Parliament this week. Africa's biggest political fight of the year could ensue.

Demonstrations throughout the past week have been punctuated by thrown eggs, tomatoes and stink bombs.

A group of antisegregationist white women were splattered with eggs and tomatoes Saturday night on the steps of City Hall as they sought to protest against the government bill. Their meeting was broken up by husky white nationalist youths singing Afrikaer songs.

Earlier in the day, riot police in Durban were called out to handle a demonstration by a multi-racial group that included anti-segregationist author Alan Paton.

A protest meeting inside Johannesburg's City Hall last week was interrupted by stink bombs.

The sabotage bill, sponsored by Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster, provides the death penalty for sabotage.

The government claims the bill is needed to help combat communism and other forms of internal subversion in this country, where nonwhites outnumber whites nearly 5-1.

But opponents of Vorster's measure—which they say is really Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd's—charge the powers sought are so unnecessarily broad that they threaten civil liberties and aim to silence foes of the segregationist government.

Couple Dies When Train Hits Car At College Park

14 Meet Accidental Death In Maryland

By The Associated Press
 Fourteen persons met accidental death in Maryland during the weekend.

Seven persons were killed in traffic accidents. Four persons drowned as thousands flocked to beaches to escape record-breaking heat. Three members of the same family died in a house fire on the Eastern Shore.

Among the traffic victims were a plumber and his wife, married only 11 days ago, killed Sunday as a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad passenger train smashed into their car at a railroad crossing at College Park.

The dead were identified as Robert J. McDonald, 43, and his 39-year-old wife, Lottie, of Hyattsville. Officer Richard Darling of Prince Georges County police said the car was dragged about 140 feet from point of impact and the train came to halt about three-fourths of a mile away.

The B&O in Baltimore said a diesel locomotive and two coaches made up the train.

Mrs. Melba R. Evans, 34, and her children, Anthony, 7, and Robin, 9, died Sunday in the fire which swept their home on the outskirts of Crisfield.

One of the drowning victims was a Filipino steward's mate attached to the Naval Academy in Annapolis who drowned in the Severn River Saturday as he tried to raise the sail on a small boat.

Navy officials identified him

Mother And Her Two Children Perish In Fire

CRISFIELD, Md. (AP)—A 34-year-old woman and her two children died early Sunday when fire swept through their home on the outskirts of Crisfield.

Mrs. Melba R. Evans and her children, Anthony, 7, and Robin, 9, were pronounced dead by Dr. C. G. Rawley, deputy medical examiner for Somerset County.

Roy W. Evans, 38, father of the children, was admitted to McCready Memorial Hospital in fair condition with second and third degree burns.

State Police said the fire at the home off Maryland Route 380 was reported by a neighbor about 3 a.m. When firemen arrived, Evans was trying to re-enter the burning building but was restrained by firemen because of the intense heat.

Authorities began an investigation to determine the cause of the blaze.

Francis Du Pont Dies In Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP)—Francis V. du Pont, 67, son of a former president of the Du Pont Company in Wilmington, Del., died at University Hospital Sunday of lung cancer. He had been hospitalized since Wednesday.

A native of Johnstown, Pa. Du Pont moved to Wilmington in 1900 when his father, T. Coleman du Pont, became president of the giant chemical firm. In recent years, Du Pont lived near Cambridge on the Eastern Shore.

In Maryland, he served as a member of the Public Service Commission and the Maryland Self-Survey Commission.

Du Pont's 1,000-acre estate at Horn's Point, near Cambridge, will become city property six months after his death. So will an office building in downtown Cambridge.

He also donated the Cambridge Yacht Club to the city, which in turn has turned it over to the corporation running the club.

S & L Insurance Plan Launched

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A self-insurance system for Maryland savings and loan associations has been launched with the appointment of an 11-member board by Gov. Tawes.

The new Maryland Savings-Share Insurance Corp., approved by the 1962 General Assembly, will be state-sponsored but will not involve state funds.

The system will be financed and controlled by industry, but will not begin operations until 25 members with free share accounts totaling at least $25 million have signed up for insurance. Then the industry will choose its own 10-member board of directors and the governor will appoint an 11th director.

Named acting chairman of the 11-man board, which will serve while the 25 memberships are being sought, was Baltimore attorney Richard W. Case. He is an adviser of the governor, and headed a commission which drafted Maryland's regulatory act for savings and loan associations.

The board, composed of industry members, will choose its own chairman when it formally organizes.

Beautiful The Bride Who Plans Ahead

There is great wisdom in patronizing a bridal salon where a consultant will not only give freely of her experienced advice but assemble all your needs so that you can try them on and have them fitted to perfection at the same appointment.

For a flying start, select your attire well in advance of the day.

Whether you wear a traditional gown with train and trimmings or a memorable daytime costume, the moment you make your choice, select all complementary details—lingerie, stockings, slippers, gloves and other necessities. This will guard against such eleventh-hour mishaps as a glove appearing too white against a creamy gown or a slip wrinkling up under a snugly-fitted sheath.

As soon as you have chosen your cap or hat, settle on the hair style that looks most fetching with it and immediately have your tresses shaped, permanently waved if necessary, and set in that style. In the weeks before your wedding, learn to arrange your coiffure expertly. (You'll go right on reaping rewards for this forethought when later you sit at your own breakfast table with a pair of dotting eyes upon you.) For the ceremony, have a set at least two days beforehand to achieve a natural, soft effect.

Next, make sure your wedding cosmetics will complement both your own coloring and that of your attire. Your foundation and powder should make your skin appear as fair or fairer than the principal color in your apparel; your lipstick must be indelible and of a delicate, feminine shade as should be your nail polish. Practice using all your bridal cosmetics, time and again, so there will be no doubt as to their effectiveness or your ability to apply them effectively.

If you rehearse every phase of your bridal beauty, your wedding perfection will grow with each run-through. Don't overlook your walk, whether your aisle is to be long or short. Put your wedding slippers on and, with relaxed knees and the weight on the pads of your feet, slow-slide around your room. Fashion a paper bouquet and practice holding it so lightly that it appears the treasure it will be and pose it so skillfully that it blankets neither your hand nor your dress.

These loveliness skills and the radiance your happiness is sure to impart will work the magic you dream of—you'll be a true "vision of delight" on your wedding day.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠K56 ♥Q9553 ♦Q972 ♣8

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ 1 NT ?

What do you bid now?

A—Two spades. If you don't speak now it may become inexpedient to do so later. Partner should not play you for substantial values since you failed to double one no trump.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠10 ♥Q1072 ♦KJ8642 ♣75

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ 1 NT 1 NT Pass

3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Pass. Partner's jump rebid in spades is not forcing and you have about the least that the law will tolerate for a one no trump response. If this hand will produce a game partner would probably have been able to bid it himself.

Q. 3—As South the dealer you hold:

♠9843 ♥QJ103 ♦A7 ♣AQ4

What is your opening bid?

A—One club, a mandatory opening with 14 points. This is a prepared bid to avoid future bidding difficulties. If you open one heart, and partner responds two diamonds, you will find the rebid definitely not to your taste.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠KJ3 ♥874 ♦KJ3 ♣J1094

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ 1 NT 1 NT Pass

2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—You had a substantial one no trump response and we are inclined to take one further step. However, our choice is for three hearts rather than two no trump, as partner's rebid shows an unbalanced hand not suited for no trump play.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠KQ10743 ♥Q103 ♦62 ♣52

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Two spades. This hand is definitely not the no trump type and preference should be given to re-bidding a good six card suit over returning to partner's hearts.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠Q109763 ♥KJ105 ♦62 ♣7

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Double 4 ♠ 5 ♠

5 ♠ 5 NT Pass 6 ♠

Pass Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Six spades. Your spade holding strongly suggests that no tricks can be taken in that suit against six clubs and partner's failure to double indicates that he has few defensive values on the side. The save should not prove too expensive.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠AQJ103 ♥864 ♦KQ3 ♣AQ

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

3 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

4 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Five spades. Since partner was strong enough to first bid his own suit and subsequently raise yours, hope for slam should not be abandoned. Your main concern is the heart situation and overbidding the game in spades after the other suits have been mentioned will clearly ask partner to go on if he has no more than one loser in hearts.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♥J8643 ♦AQ43 ♣J1087

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

Pass 1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—One trump. This hand is not strong enough to bid at the two level, yet some action must be taken. The only bid available is one no trump which designates a hand ranging from six to 10 points in high cards. When this bid is used as a response it does not necessarily promise a balanced hand.

and other resources is set by the State Department of Public Welfare. Income is any money regularly received and certain necessities of living that are furnished without cost. Other resources are cash on hand or in the bank, cash value of insurance, real property other than one home and any other asset that is convertible to cash. The information is not the same for each person because income and resources of individuals differ. The worker defines what can be accepted as proof and when necessary helps the person to get it.

"3. Does receiving Medical Assistance to the Aged result in a claim against a person's property?"

"No."

"4. How does a person know whether he is eligible for MAA?"

"Usually the caseworker and the person have cleared the necessary information within 30 days. It will take longer if the person has not furnished the required information. The person will receive a letter from the local welfare department telling him whether or not he is eligible. If eligible, he will receive an identification card from the local health department which he uses to secure the medical services that are provided."

ARE YOU MAKING THE ANTI-ACID MISTAKE?

Important News for Every

INDIGESTION, HEARTBURN, INTESTINAL GAS SUFFERER!

Now, for the first time you can apply the brakes to stomach distress before the trouble begins. Up to now, anti-acids have been used mostly to relieve stomach upset after suffering the pangs of distress. Now, thanks to a new, natural formulation called MIAZYME you may eliminate the discomforts of indigestion, heartburn and intestinal gas caused by poor digestion of foods.

If you properly digest the food you eat, chances are you will not suffer stomach distress. This is because of the action of enzymes, manufactured in the digestive process. When these enzymes fall below par—as age increases, enzymatic action may become inadequate, or, as medical science knows, today's fast, hectic living pace can create distress caused by stomach tensions—you are apt to suffer indigestion, gas, bloating, heartburn, cramps and other uncomfortable forms of stomach upset.

Why risk making the anti-acid mistake? Just two MIAZYME capsules a day is all it takes to help eliminate the discomforts of indigestion, heartburn, gas and open the door to new vistas in food enjoyment.

MIAZYME contains no narcotics! No habit forming drugs! No harmful side effects, taken as directed. So safe, no prescription is needed! Get MIAZYME today at your favorite drug store and break the anti-acid routine. Try it for 6 days on a NO RISK GUARANTEE. You must be completely satisfied or your money refunded. Regular size, $1.50. Economy size, $3.00.

Tri-Towns CC Is Sponsoring Clean-Up Plan

Collection Days Are Announced

WESTERNPORT — Clean-Up Week opens today under sponsorship of the Tri-Towns Community Council. The Lions Club has assumed responsibility for promoting the drive and John Connie Harvey is chairman.

Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up posters have been placed in the windows of various business places.

Piedmont has set Tuesday as the extra day for picking up trash placed on streets. Thursday and Friday are regular days for garbage collection.

Westernport designated Wednesday as the additional collection day. Thursday and Friday are garbage collection days in the community.

Tomorrow and Friday will be regular garbage collection days in Luke. Trash will be picked up on other days of the week.

In conjunction with the Clean-Up campaign, the United Organizations is conducting a used clothing campaign to restock the clothing racks in the UO store-room.

Local residents are urged to donate usable clothing to UO for distribution to needy persons of the Tri-Towns area during the next year.

Thursday, beginning at 4:30 p. m., Boy and Girl Scouts under the direction of Alton Fortney and other leaders will pick up clothing placed on porches or other convenient places.

Cars and unassigned units of Scouts are to meet at Trinity Methodist Church in Piedmont at 4:30 p. m.

English Baptist Circles Arrange Activities

FROSTBURG — The WMS of First English Baptist Church met recently with Mrs. Carol Crawford in charge. The opening hymn, "Work For the Night is Coming," was sung by the group followed with prayer by the president.

It was announced that the Kathryn Barnes Circle will make the favors for the month of May for the hospital. Mary Turner Circle will hold a service at the County Home and Annie Armstrong Circle will conduct a visitation program.

Following the June meeting, a round table will be held with Mrs. Ruth Moulden as Mission Study Chairman.

Mrs. Phyllis Lancaster, stewardship chairman, explained the co-operative program in the Southern Baptist Convention.

A reviewing council will be held and a G. A. Coronation is planned for G. A. Focus Week.

Mrs. Mary Rankin gave the names on the Calendar of Prayer and offered prayer on their behalf.

"Teach the Good and Right Way to Indians" was the theme of the program held by Edna Richardson, program chairman. Participating in the program were Georgia Neilson, Peggy Fuller, Mary Rankin, Della Offman, Phyllis Lancaster, and Peggy Miller. Peggy Fuller offered the closing prayer.

Hanky-Panky In The Granaries

The U. S. Department of Agriculture observed its 100th anniversary the other day, but no doubt some of its top brass would have preferred to forget the whole thing.

The reason, of course, is that people around this particular agency are getting more than a little headline-shy. They're caught up in a mess — the Billie Sol Estes business — that has all the makings of a major scandal.

Billie Sol is the West Texas wonder boy who is said to have parlayed a modest investment of his own into a fantastic grain storage and fertilizer empire which is belatedly coming down around his ears. Unfortunately for the Department of Agriculture and its centennial, he apparently couldn't have done it without the government's help.

Government grain storage money was one of the financial pillars upon which Billie Sol built his shaky fortune. He used the government payments as collateral to buy liquid fertilizer, and from then on the story becomes really weird, with charges of millions in mortgages on non-existent fertilizer tanks, etc.

By the time federal intervention brought his activities to a halt, Billie Sol was reported to have had $90 million worth of government grain in storage. Unfortunately for the Department of Agriculture, which got into this particular farm program quite late in its 100-year history, the alarming evidence of hanky-panky in the granary mounts with each passing day of this, its centennial year.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Name Is Farley

All sorts of Democratic persons in New York State offer themselves as candidates for the Governorship. It is a good year to run because Democrats believe that there is a chance that Governor Rockefeller can be defeated.

Unfortunately most of the names thus far mentioned are nondescript from a political standpoint. If one candidate is popularly known in his own particular bailiwick, he is not known elsewhere. An aspirant must fill all the provisions of a formula that fits New York State. He must:

1. Have a following among the more conservative Democrats up-state;
2. Be acceptable to the Reform Democrats of New York City;
3. Be acceptable to the Liberal Party;
4. Have such a reputation that he will draw away Republican votes from Rockefeller;
5. Be acceptable to the Kennedy Administration and to Mayor Wagner who is the virtual leader of the Democratic Party in New York.

The man who fits this bill is silent. He will not say Yes! and he will not say No! He does not need the job, as he has one that pays more and gives him a chance to travel throughout the world. He manages to attend public luncheons and dinners every day. The name is James A. Farley, familiarly known as Big Jim. To those who still remember it, he was responsible for Franklin D. Roosevelt becoming President of the United States and he served as Postmaster General. He broke with Roosevelt over the Third Term and the American people endorsed his view by passing the 22nd Amendment to the Constitution.

Farley is obviously popular, not because he is neutral or all things to all men, but because he is an independent person who turns out to be right generally. The only objection I have heard to the candidacy of Big Jim is that he is old, 74 years old. In our modern world, age is not a matter of years but of arteries and ulcers and such matters. Farley possesses the stamina of a man in his 50's.

If this description of the man seems excessively enthusiastic, biased, partial, I can only admit that the description is correct. And that is one reason why I believe that Farley can be elected. So many Republicans believe that if Farley ran against Rockefeller, they would vote for Farley and many Democrats say that they will not vote for the other names mentioned either for factional reasons, or because the persons mentioned have insufficient stature to warrant running.

The story goes the rounds that Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., is a candidate for the office of Governor. He has actually not lived in New York State for a number of years. He has lived in Washington, D. C. where he is in the automobile sales business. Even when he ran for Congress, his address, at one time, was the up-town Esplanade Hotel where he had a room. It was obviously a makeshift address.

It is doubtful that Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., can fit all the conditions stated above. Certainly he would draw no Republican votes from Nelson Rockefeller. While he bears his father's name, which means much in New York City, it is clear that that name is a liability so far as Republicans and many independent voters are concerned.

New York State has about 17,000,000 persons, which is equivalent to the population of the whole of Canada. The population is very mixed; there are many large cities and many rural areas; the racial complex is Italian, Irish, German, Negro, Puerto Rican, Jewish, variously Slavic, with a large Protestant Anglo-Saxon and Dutch rural and suburban voting element. The strongest religious group, from a political standpoint, is the Roman Catholic.

Blot voting is not unusual in New York State and a candidate must have, not an appeal to all groups, but surely no basic antagonism. The Italo-Americans, most of whom are Democrats, regard themselves as having been discriminated against politically and they will have to be given consideration but like all groups which mature in this country and are on the verge of assimilation, they would not want candidates of their nationality to be persons of less significance than others on the ticket. They would want a top-notch personality. The Italo-Americans probably constitute the largest voting group in the State.

This is the present situation. It could change, of course.

How Do We Get Back What's Been Eaten?

We Send Troops To Asia; Why Not To Cuba?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — It's a little hard to understand why the United States is sending 5,000 troops into Thailand—nearly eight thousand miles away—to help keep the Communists from extending into that country the hold they already have next door in Laos, while nothing is being done about rescuing Cuba, only 90 miles away from our shores.

President Kennedy says the American troops were sent into Thailand "to put us in a position to fulfill our obligations" under the treaty of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, often referred to as "SEATO," and that other member countries will send troops, too. But if a regional association like this can take action so far away from the United States, it may be asked: why isn't the Organization of American States being persuaded to send troops into Cuba to rid the island of the Communist dynasty that rules there?

Surely, eliminating the menace of Communism in Cuba would seem to be all-important to the security of the United States and of the nations to the south of it. It appears to be generally agreed that Fidel Castro really doesn't control Cuba but that alongside of him are a set of aides and advisers trained in Moscow who continually carry on hostile activities toward other Latin-American countries.

In the last meeting of the organization of American States, the United States government had a hard time getting acquiescence to a plan for economic sanctions against the Communist regime in Cuba. Little has been heard since as to what the Washington government is doing to mobilize Latin-American governments behind a plan to drive the Communists out of Cuba.

This country has a very extensive aid program, known as the "Alliance for Progress," which is to cost the taxpayers of the United States many billions of dollars in the next few years. It doesn't seem sensible to be giving money to any Latin-American government which is so short-sighted as to fail to see the danger involved in letting the Communists operate from Cuba as a base.

Unquestionably the Kennedy administration can, if it likes, put pressure on the Latin-American governments to get some kind of sanction from the Organization of American States for military steps in Cuba.

As a matter of fact, the United States need not wait for the consent of the other states any more than it did in Thailand. The Southeast Asia treaty, for instance, unlike the NATO pact, provides that, when there is danger of aggression in the area, each member shall be governed by its own "constitutional processes." This is but another way of saying that each country shall make its own decision.

The United States is in a similar position as a member of the Organization of American States. It may ask for the co-operation of the other members, but it can make its own decision to protect any Latin-American country that has been invaded by a foreign power or where there has been evidence of subversive activities which threaten the political independence of the people.

There is abundant evidence in connection with the Communist operations in Latin America that the Moscow government has infiltrated many parts of the hemisphere and exercises direct control of the government and the national economy of Cuba. Hence, the right under an existing international agreement to take action in Cuba is clear.

It will be contended, of course, that American troops have been landed in Thailand with the permission of the government of that country and that the purpose is to defend it alone, but everyone realizes that across the Laotian border is the real source of the trouble and that there are in Laos American military units which theoretically are only "advisory" to the anti-Communist forces but which have orders to shoot if attacked.

So there no longer is any doubt but that the United States is using military force to check Communist-inspired operations in Southeast Asia and that other members of SEATO have formally recognized America's action and may send their own troops as well. The other members of SEATO, besides Thailand and the United States, are Australia, France, New Zealand, Pakistan, the Philippines and Great Britain. Some of these countries will not send any troops.

Likewise, if there is any entry into Cuba by military forces of the United States under the sanctions derived from the treaty of the Organization of American States, it would not mean that all member countries would necessarily participate.

The SEATO precedent, however, gives support now to a similar movement of American troops into Cuba or surrounding areas. The purpose would be to cut off all operations by Communist-led forces based in Cuba and aimed at any other country of this hemisphere. Sending American troops to Thailand certainly opens up the question of why the same kind of action in respect to Cuba isn't also justified.

Orville Freeman Has Been Crack Salesman For His Farm Program

By Drew Pearson

he had direct orders from JFK to cut the budget.

WASHINGTON — Orville Freeman stood in line at a reception commemorating the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Agriculture Department. A 100th birthday should be a happy occasion, but this one was not.

Twelve hours before, Freeman had fired his Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, the third member of his staff to be embroiled with a get-rich-quick Texan who had dispensed cash and clothes to influence people.

Orville Freeman had come to Washington with a beautiful wife and high hopes of licking the toughest domestic problem confronting the nation — the farm surpluses.

This did not mean that he was entirely naive. It is true that he had watched every man who tackled the agriculture problem in recent years leave with his reputation in tatters. Henry Wallace, the seed expert from Iowa whose father had been Secretary of Agriculture, had been branded a butcherer of little pigs. Charley Brannan had been scoffed at as a visionary who wanted a direct subsidy for agriculture, while Ezra Taft Benson got kicked in the seat of the pants by every farm organization every time he took a step in any direction or even when he just sat on his chair.

Orville Freeman, therefore, was something of an optimist when he figured he could cut surpluses. He was not only an optimist but

OK. I don't agree with you, but go ahead."

Freeman has spent hours conferring individually with every member of the potent House and Senate Agriculture Committees — including Republicans — even though he knew he couldn't get all their votes. And they have become to laudatory of the new Secretary of Agriculture that when he arrived at the House Committee to present his farm bill, every man rose and applauded. This is unprecedented. Most Agriculture Committees have glowered and heckled.

But Freeman, unattended by the customary battery of advisers, has testified for hours explaining farm figures and policy. Congressmen who have studied farm problems for years, who considered him a city slicker, have been impressed.

Thus, Freeman concentrated on what many other Secretaries neglected — selling his program to Congress. He also took trip after trip across the USA selling his program to farm organizations.

A man who is a salesman is seldom a good administrator, and Orville Freeman, whether good or bad, was not around much to administer farm programs, a man who woos Congress must give jobs to friends of Congressmen, and they in turn do favors for other friends of Congressmen.

Long before Orville Freeman took office, the Department of Agriculture had become one of the biggest political grab bags, with grain bins, warehouses, field agents scattered over the nation, in a position to make or unmake fortunes for big dealers.

That's why things have blown up inside the Agriculture Department. And that's why Orville Freeman, as he stood in line to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the Agriculture Department, was not a happy man.

Another column on troubles inside the Agriculture Department will follow soon.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Family Crisis—Conclusion

MIAMI, Fla.—The word spreads. It was on local radio stations and television within an hour. John M. Bishop, retired police lieutenant, had suffered a heart attack at West End, Grand Bahama, and was now in Jackson Memorial Hospital. Mr. Bishop was 78.

The sympathy of strangers is very sweet. Phone calls offering help came from everywhere. A woman sent a poem and a prayer. Some offered financial help; a man named Schwartz offered a suite of rooms free at the New Everglades. "You'll be closer to the hospital." Women offered to watch the children. Miami Beach Police sent flowers. So did the Bob Neales and Roy McAndrews.

Friends called. George Beebe, managing editor of The Miami Herald, said: "Name it. We'll do it." Hank Meyer said: "Whatever you need, we'll take care of it." A man I never met named Mac Seligman sent a Hertz car and said: "At a time like this, you need an automobile." A doorman, a handyman, a maid making up beds.

The action in Room 788-S is impossible to describe. Dr. Pedro Greer and Dr. Maurice Rich supervised tests. The chart began to show pages of notes. Night orders. Day orders. E.K.G.'s. X-Rays. Oxygen at 9. Medication. Liquids. Sip through a straw. Breathe through a green tube. A little blood out of the arm; a shot into the buttocks.

Patient on the critical list. He's nauseous. Change the bed linen. Call the doctor. Stop the medication. Try something new. Pulse stronger at 63. Arms cold. He whispers that his stomach hurts. He shows digitalis intoxication. Catheter, please. Some uremia. A little fluid in the lungs.

Let's not try anything radical with this patient. Too old. Take one thing at a time. Congestive heart failure first. One thing at a time. Nice and slow. He has an old ulcer. We'll try some medication in suppository form. We'll bypass the ulcer. Okay, now. Easy does it.

It was like that for days. Inch by inch, John Bishop began to climb back up. The eyes flickered open. They looked at Kelly. One of them winked. The man was making his own fight. He heard the nurse say he needed fluids. "Beer," he said, forming the word slowly. "Get . . . me . . . a . . . barrel."

He received Extreme Unction, the heavenly passport, and he felt better. The patient never mentioned anything about his chances of living, but I saw the lingering, longing look in his eyes and I knew that he didn't think he would make it. His only disappointment was that he was far from home.

His will had been written a long time ago. It disposed of his cherished possessions among his three children and, at the bottom, it said: "No tears. No grief. In my time I have lived a life and a half—maybe two—and there is nothing to feel bad about. Please take sufficient cash to buy dinner and a drink for my friends."

The days dragged. There were phone calls home and visits to the sick room. The monotonous plea of prayer was offered again and again. Some days, John Bishop spoke a few words. Mostly, he studied us at the foot of the bed, and we watched the eyes close closely.

The television set on the dresser remained blank. For the first time in 40 years, he did not care about the New York Yankees. When the nurses awakened him to take medicine, he looked startled for a moment, then did as he was told. We never left when he was awake, because he did not want to be alone with strangers.

The doctors and nurses came, and went, riffling through the chart, frowning, whispering, writing. On the fifth night, he had scotch and water through a bent straw. John Bishop couldn't believe it. The doctor had said that it wouldn't hurt him, and it might do a little good.

In the hall, I talked to the doctor. "He's still in heart failure," he said. I said nothing. "Everything depends," he said, "on how much heart muscle he has left." We talked awhile. I had thought that if my father recovered, it would be gradual and sort of permanent.

I was learning something grim. He would not recover fully. Much of the heart muscle was flaccid, dead. No one could predict what would happen, but the chances were that he would, with luck, live out his remaining time in a wheelchair, out of breath at the slightest exertion.

John Bishop is not the type for that life. He had once been a flashy second baseman, a rugby player, a lieutenant of police with big strides, a man who held up one end of a piano while my mother shipped a rug under it.

In the hospital, he was just one of many cases. There were more important ones, for example, in the children's section. As I stood in the hall, thinking, I wondered if my father and I were praying for the same thing.

New Operation For Victims Of Otosclerosis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Ear surgeons in many parts of the country are enthusiastic about an operation that offers the prospect of restoring the hearing of 90 per cent of all victims of otosclerosis. The procedure (stapedioplasty) is done with the assistance of the operating microscope and utilizes a tiny piece of vein graft, steel wire, or plastic. This operation may replace fenestration and stapes mobilization which proved successful in little more than half the cases.

Otosclerosis is hereditary and usually begins in early or middle adult life. As a rule, both ears are affected and the disorder is twice as common in women as in men. Pregnancy often makes this type of deafness worse.

Loss of hearing is primarily of the conductive type because sound is hampered from reaching the organ of hearing inside the labyrinth of the inner ear.

There is an overgrowth of bone in the area where the footplate of the stapes fits into the oval window of the labyrinth. The perception of sound is lost because these parts cannot vibrate.

The stapes is so named because it resembles the stirrup on a saddle: it is a ring that is horizontal on the part that receives the foot of the rider. The footplate and arch or the stapes look exactly like their counterpart on the saddle.

In this newer operation, otologists open the drum and remove the stapes with a microhook or microdrill. The oval window is cleared of all otosclerotic obstructions and covered with a new footplate or plug made from a vein or fat graft. A prosthesis must be made to replace the rest of the stapes. This is accomplished with a small length of polyethylene tubing, bone, or thin wire.

Local anesthesia is used and the individual is hospitalized for three days. Useful hearing levels have been restored to thousands during the five years the operation has been done.

TOMORROW: The Sabin vaccine.

John Straley was loitering in the visitors lounge of Doctors Hospital when they carried in an unfortunate fellow who had swallowed a ping pong ball. Told an immediate operation was imperative, the patient demanded a local anesthetic so he could watch.

But he winced visibly when the surgeon made eleven successive incisions. "Why," he demanded, "do you have to cut in so many places?"

"Can't help it," murmured the preoccupied surgeon, still cutting away. "That's the way the ball bounces."

The late head of a big film studio in Hollywood was an ardent do-gooder who thought every picture should emphasize the rewards to be won by clean living and the American way. Unfortunately, most of his productions lacked box-office appeal

Hyndman And Barrelville Win; CCC Golfers Cop 66th Straight

Lehman Tosses One-Hit Game; Raines Fans 15

Grantsville Loses, 14-1; Farmers Bow; Mt. Savage Winner

PEN-MAR LEAGUE
Standing Of The Teams
	W. L. Pct.
Frostburg	6 0 1.000
Barrelville	5 1 .833
Hyndman	3 3 .500
Grantsville	2 4 .333
Lonaconing	2 4 .333
Mt. Savage	2 4 .333
Flintstone	0 5 .000

Vohn Lehman hurled the Hyndman Merchants into the .500 class yesterday when he tossed a one-hitter and turned back Grantsville by the score of 14-1 in a Pen-Mar Baseball League game at Hyndman.

The only hit yielded by Lehman was a homer over the left field fence by Clyde Broadwater on the first ball pitched in the seventh inning.

Lehman notched his first win of the campaign after losing to Frostburg, 2-1, Barrelville, 3-2, and Lonaconing 8-5, and the win gave the Merchants a 3-3 record for the season. Vohn struck out eight, walked one and hit one batsman and sparked the Merchants' 15-hit assault with a two-bagger and three singles in five official trips.

Wayne Bosley, Hyndman's slugging catcher from Bayard, W. Va., had a perfect day at the plate with a 2-run circuit belt over the left field barrier and two singles. Shortstop Don Lowery homered over the left field fence with two aboard and also had a single. Gary Lehman hit safely twice and Ronnie Evans smacked a double for the winners.

Raines Fans Fifteen
Bobby Raines mowed down 15 via the strikeout route, scattered six hits and registered his third win of the campaign as Barrelville's Old Exports handed Flintstone's Farmers their fifth straight setback at Barrelville by the score of 3-1.

The victory gave Raines a 3-1 record and put Barrelville (5-1) one game back of the pace-setting Frostburg Merchants, who were idle yesterday.

George Weaver's double and Charley Boone's single in the 7th averted a shutout for Flintstone.

Manager "Buck" Florita's team jumped on Russ Jones for three of their seven hits and all their runs in the sixth frame.

Singles by Raines and Donnie Lewis followed by a wild throw by the catcher produced the initial tally. Ronnie Neubiser doubled in another tally and Ronnie Cagle's sacrifice fly sent home the third and final run of the big inning.

Donnie Lewis collected a double and single, Raines had a pair of base knocks and Neubiser rapped a double for the victors.

Jones fanned three and failed to issue a pass. Raines gave up three bases on balls.

Mt. Savage Cops Slugfest
In a game marked by 37 hits, Mt. Savage emerged the winner over Lonaconing by the score of 15-11, at Lonaconing.

The Old Germans collected 23 safeties with Rich Lybarger, Steve Faulkner, Ken Johnson, Bobby Green and Joe Nolan accounting for three blows each while Ted Pemi and Bobby Uhl had two apiece.

Bill Richmond accounted for four of Lonaconing's 14 hits. Bob by Munden had three safeties. Grover Fazenbaker banged a triple and single and Jerry Lancaster garnered a two-bagger and single.

Lefty Wayne Johnson went the route for Mt. Savage, broke his 4-game losing streak, and struck out six, Ray Winner, who relieved Grover Fazenbaker, was tagged with the loss.

Maryland Chow Chow Judged Best In Show At Frostburg

Ah Sid Kennels Dog Heads Record 431 In 9th Event Of UPVKC

As a fitting climax to the largest show in the nine year history of the Upper Potomac Valley Kennel Club, Champion Ah Sid The Dilettante, a Chow Chow, owned by the Ah Sid Kennels of Clinton, Prince Georges county, Md., was adjudged best in show yesterday before a large gallery at the National Guard Armory in Frostburg.

The winner was handled by Miss Jane Kamp and the judge was Mrs. Margaret M. Shoemaker, of Riverton, N. J.

A total of 431 dogs were entered in the one-day show and seven judges worked the rings from 9 a. m. to 6:30 p. m. There were 66 champions of record in the show and all six group winners were champions. Judges made special note of the high quality of the dogs entered.

Calvinelle Jacques Pierre, owned by Martha A. Morris, earned 197 points for high score in the obedience trial.

Mrs. Earl Smith, of Lonaconing, was show chairman and Mrs. Harvey Ware, Cumberland, dog chairman.

Water from ancient glaciers probably fills many wells in parts of Wyoming, Montana and the Dakotas. Ground water in a common sandstone layer may have been derived from ice that melted 12,000 or more years ago.

An estimated one-third of the persons in the United States live in areas which don't have public libraries.

An average of 44,000 thunderstorms occur each day over the earth as a whole.

Ban The Bomb

LONDON (UPI)—About 50 mothers, many with children, marched to the U.S. and Soviet embassies Sunday to deliver notes asking that nuclear tests stop immediately.

At the U.S. embassy 26 individual petitions addressed to President Kennedy were handed in. The women then staged a two-hour silent sit-down protest in the square opposite before moving to the Soviet embassy where only one woman was allowed in to present a petition to Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm in terrible trouble and it's all your fault. Yesterday I was reading my newspaper during class. I folded up the pages to fit inside my text book. From the outside it looked like I was studying.

I was reading your column when I sensed someone was standing behind me. I thought it was the teacher but when I glanced up I found it was much worse than that — it was the superintendent of the whole peapickin' school system.

He said, "What do you think you are doing, young man?" I replied, "I am reading Ann Landers. She is very helpful to teenagers." He said "I agree, but how can she help you with geometry?" I thought I would be humorous so I answered, "Well, she knows all the angles."

Now I have to write out your whole column in longhand, six times. This will take me at least two and a half hours. Would you say the superintendent has no sense of humor?—STIFF FINGERS

DEAR STIFF: If you think I'm going to take on the whole peapickin' school system you are sadly in error. I love my readers — each and every one — but there's a time and place for everything and you were doing the right thing at the wrong time, Bub.

DEAR ANN: My friend is a widow who is madly in love with a married man. The man's wife holds an executive position and makes more money than he does. He is reluctant to leave her because their joint income provides him with luxuries he could not afford on his own.

I know for a fact he stopped loving his wife several years ago — before the widow came along. The widow is good-looking, intelligent and would not have any trouble attracting another man. But she continues with this clandestine relationship in the hope it will end in marriage. The married man is insanely jealous and will not allow her to look at another man.

I'm tempted to tell the man's wife about this affair which is going into its fourth year. She would go through the roof, but it would force him to make a choice. As it stands, he has everything his own way. Would I be justified?—STANDING BY

DEAR STANDING: The real question is this: Should you go to your sweetheart's wife and tell her about the affair in the hope that she'll throw him out and then he'll marry you.

I won't moralize, since my views on your brand of hi-links is well known. I will say, however, that you will pay dearly for your stupidity. You've spent years sneaking around with a married man who will not marry you and who's making sure no one else will.

I have some extra forms for the "Old-Too-Soon, Smart-Too-Late Club" handy. You qualify.

DEAR AND LANDERS: My husband's aunt is in her early 70's. She is not senile but she does have some peculiar notions.

Aunt Lil used to share a home with her sister, but since her sister's death two years ago, Aunt Lil is afraid to stay alone at night. She lives a few blocks from us and walks over every evening. When we go out she spends the night at our home and charges us the same fee as we would have to pay a sitter. Our children are 4 and 7.

Aunt Lil is far from hard up for money. The incident which prompted this letter occurred yesterday. She was over here and I said, "What an ideal day for antique-hunting, and I can leave the children home with you." She replied, "I'll stay for the usual sitter rates. Otherwise take them along."

I stayed home. What's your opinion? Was she justified?—JUDITH

DEAR JUDITH: Aunt Lil should pay your children for sitting with HER since she comes to your house because she's afraid to stay alone.

Line up a non-relative for sitting. Aunt Lil sounds like a real pill.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Copyright 1962, Field Enterprises, Inc.

Epidemic Ends

BRIDGEND, Wales (UPI) — A local health official said Sunday a smallpox outbreak which took 12 lives in a mental hospital last month is over.

Dr. J. Adam Evans said 28 days have elapsed since the last victim was removed from Giahryd Hospital, and "the present outbreak of smallpox can now be said to be at an end."

THE PURSUER

"THE GREAT LOCOMOTIVE CHASE"

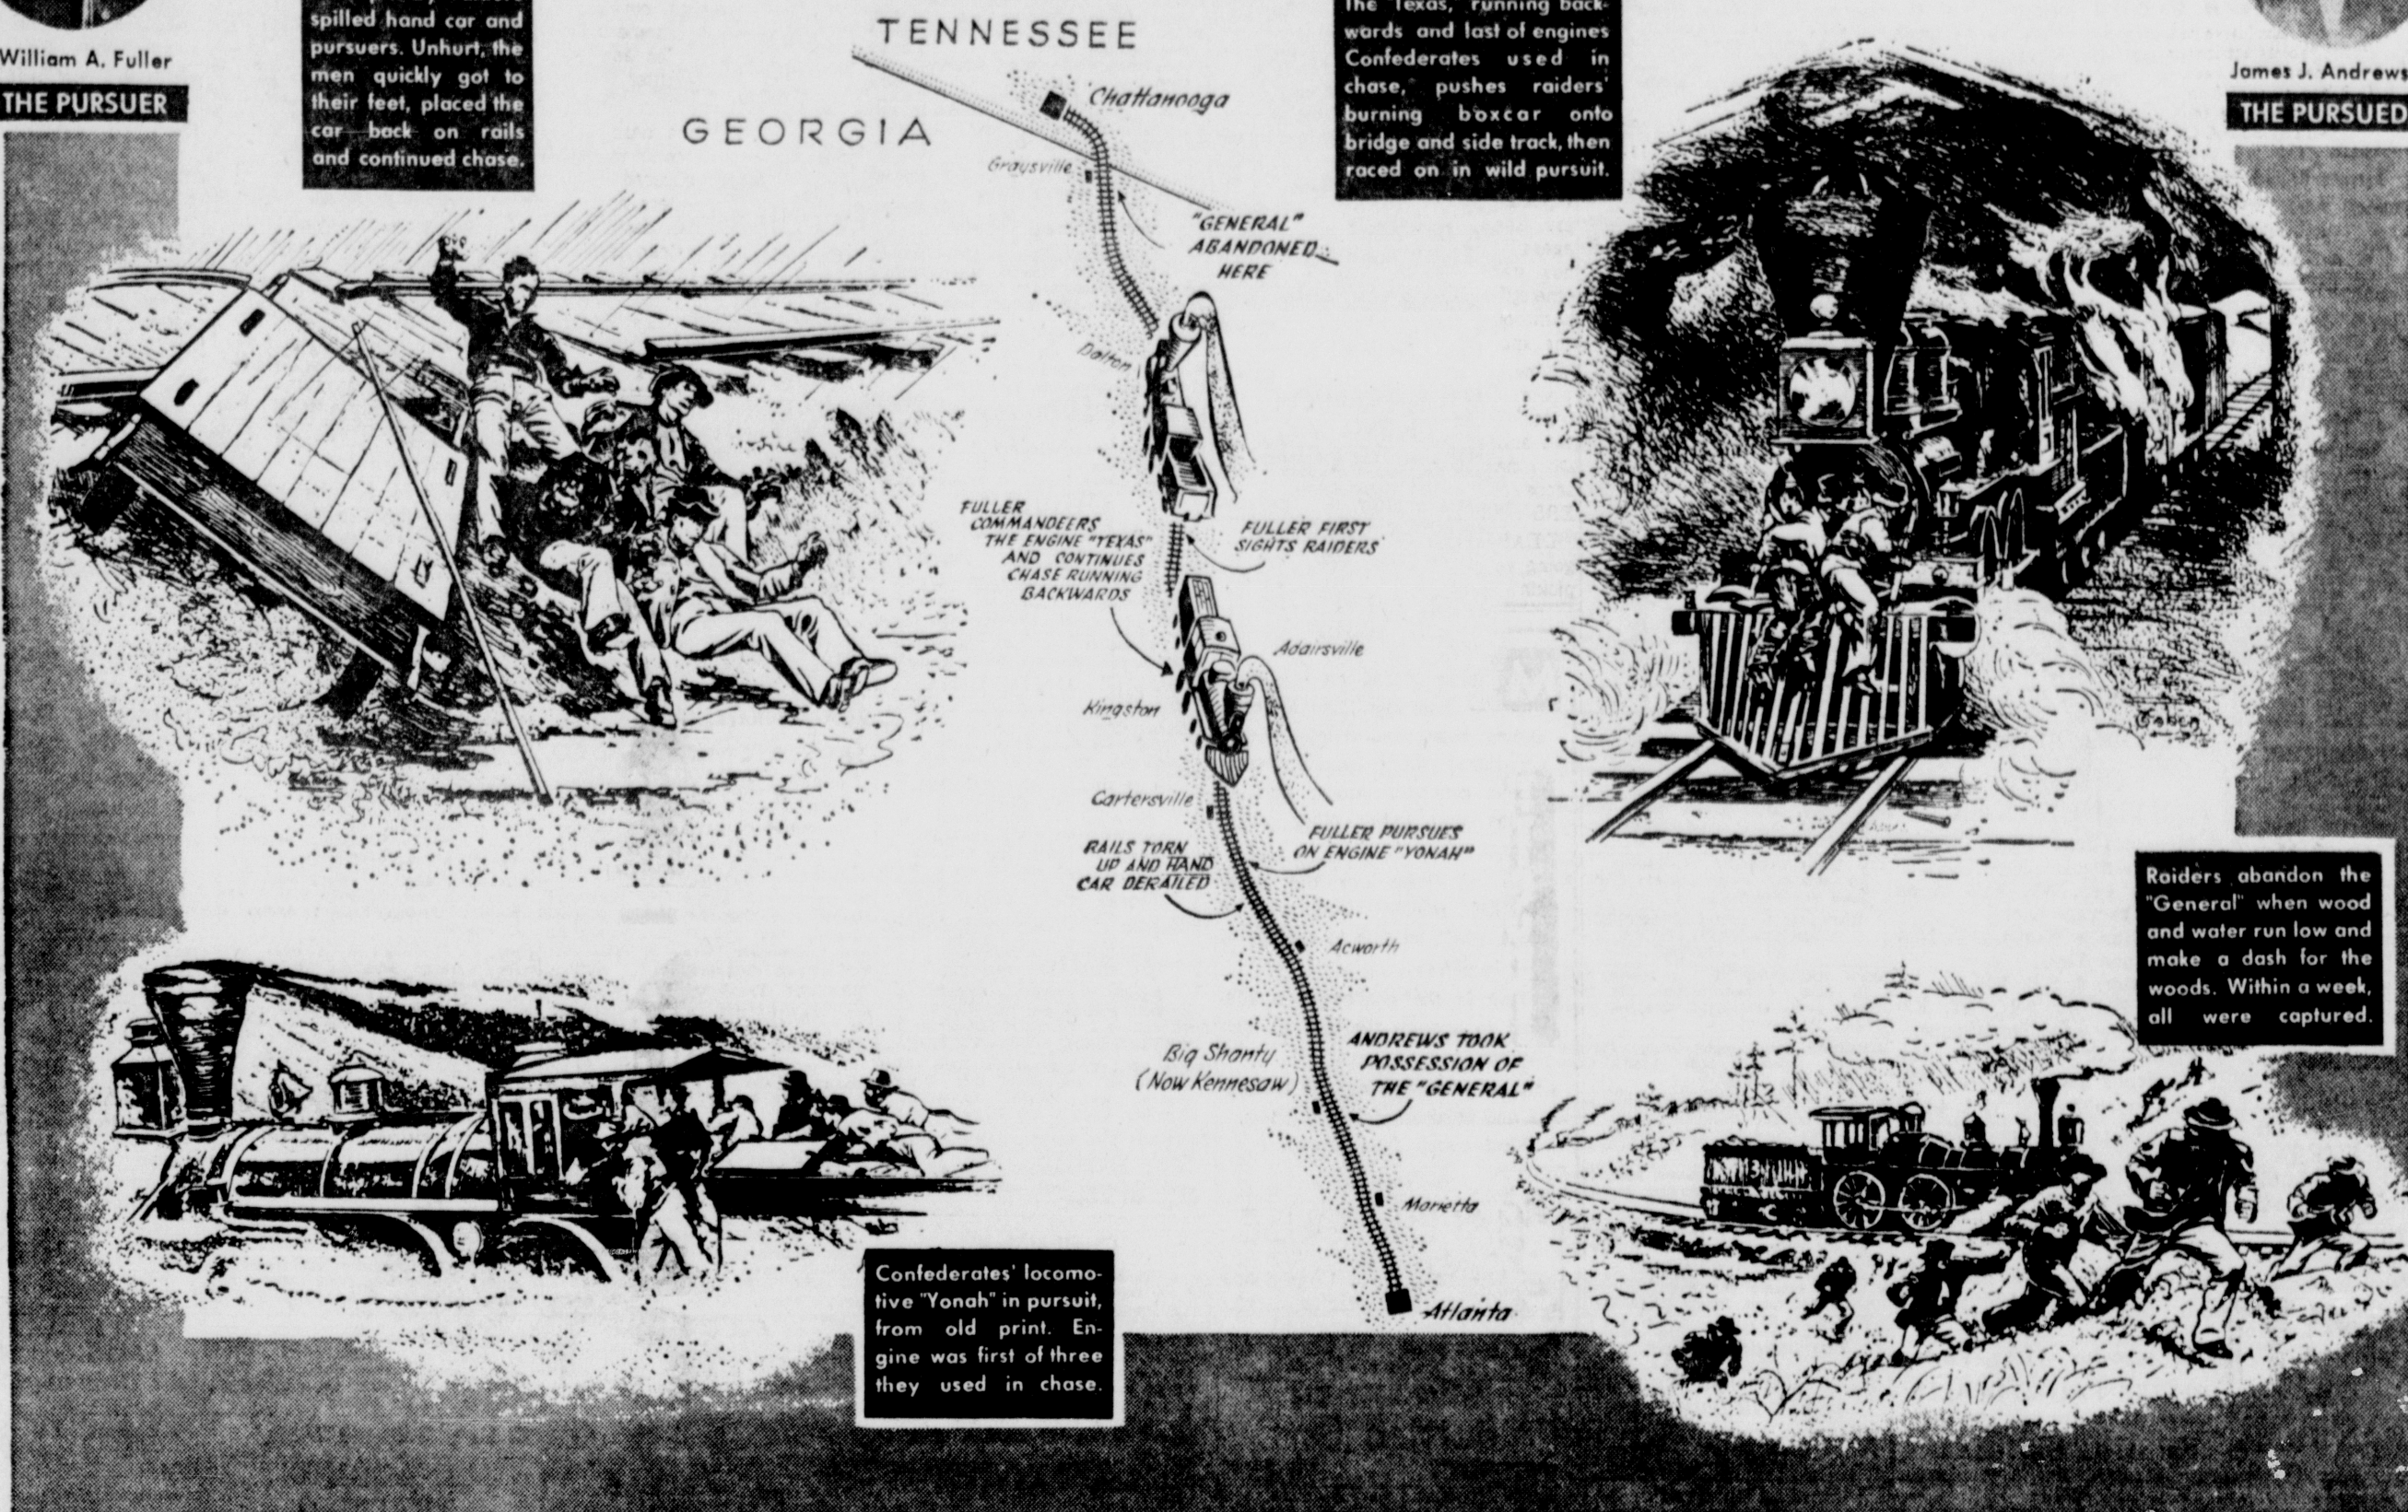

AN EPIC CIVIL WAR EVENT THAT FOLLOWED A UNION RAID

James J. Andrews
THE PURSUED

Rail split by raiders spilled hand car and pursuers. Unhurt, the men quickly got to their feet, placed the car back on rails and continued chase.

The "Texas," running backwards and last of engines Confederates used in chase, pushes raiders' burning boxcar onto bridge and side track, then raced on in wild pursuit.

Confederates' locomotive "Yonah" in pursuit, from old print. Engine was first of three they used in chase.

Raiders abandon the "General" when wood and water run low and make a dash for the woods. Within a week, all were captured.

CENTENNIAL RE-RUN

The "General" has its bearings oiled on first stop after leaving Atlanta on its Centennial run. The old engine, built in 1855, shines like new.

History rarely finds a place for a locomotive, so the "General" is an exception. It figured in one of the Civil War's most daring exploits, "Andrews' Raid," and the "great locomotive chase" that followed.

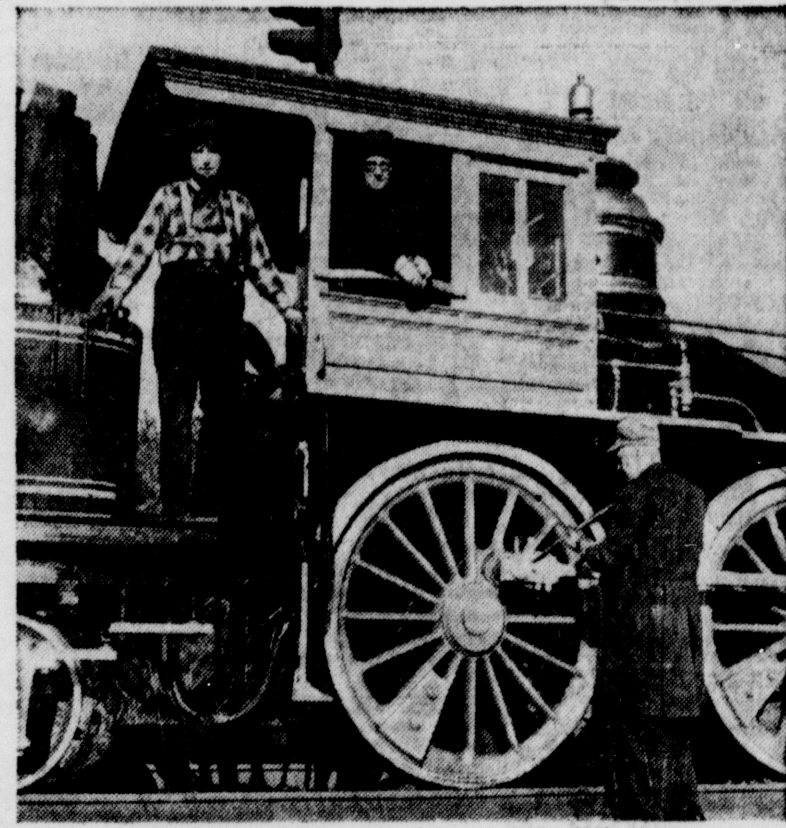

The "General" was a fine wood-burning engine that puffed along on the Western and Atlantic, a vital 136-mile rail line that ran from Atlanta to Chattanooga and funneled men and supplies to the Confederates in the field. A bold Union plan was hatched to make the line useless.

One Spring morning, in 1862, 19 Union raiders, led by James J. Andrews, all dressed as civilians, seized the "General" and its three boxcars at Big Shanty, Ga., and raced north, bent on burning the line's bridges. Two coaches were left behind.

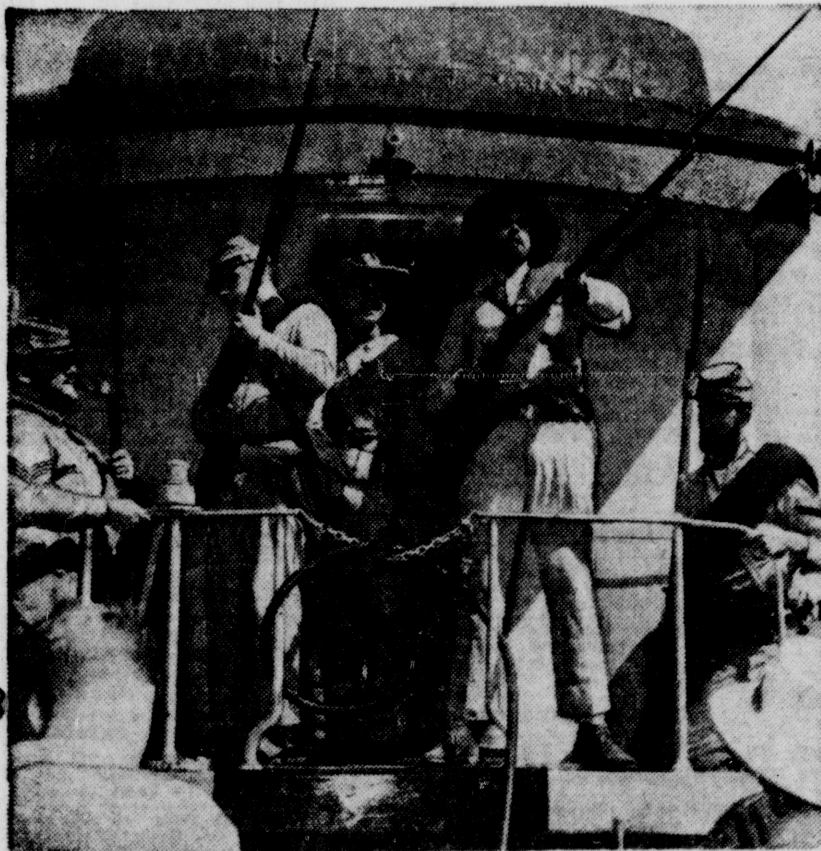

Conductor William Fuller was the first to spot the loss. He and several crew members who had gone off for lunch at Big Shanty took up the wild pursuit. They ran up the tracks for two miles, grabbed a hand car, switched to three different locomotives on the way north and finally caught up with the "General" near the Tennessee line when the raiders had to abandon it when wood and water were running low. Rainfall had prevented the burning of bridges behind them. The raiders took to the woods. Within a week, all were captured. In June, 1862, Andrews and seven of the raiders were publicly hanged in Atlanta. The rest were imprisoned.

The "General" has lasted through all these years. It has been reconditioned several times, put on exhibit, and finally given a safe berth at the Louisville Railway Museum. Recently, as a Civil War Centennial event, it was placed back on the rails for a rerun of the famous chase. Everywhere along the line, from Atlanta to Chattanooga, thousands turned out to cheer the old "iron horse."

The "General," in the Civil War and today, is pictured here.

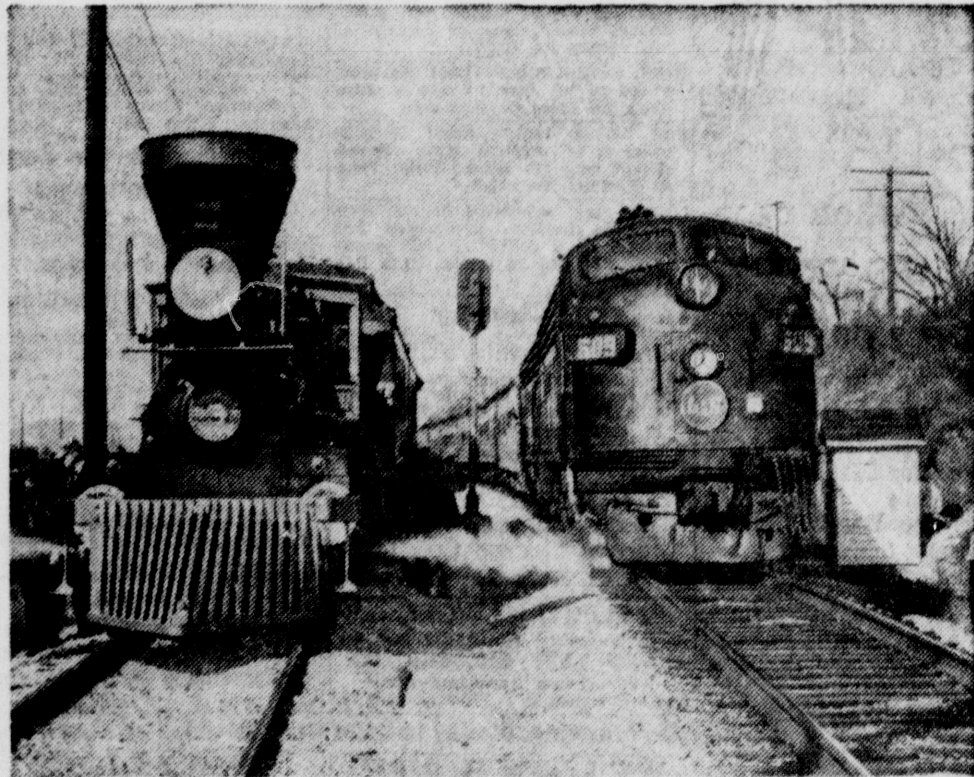

Fireman Jack Barrett and Engineer Paul West wear attire of the men who ran the "General" before it was seized in raid 100 years ago.

Celebrants dressed as Confederate soldiers guard rear of train.

Thousands greeted the "General" everywhere along the line. Crowd surrounds engine at Big Shanty (now Kennesaw) where raiders seized it century ago.

Old and new. Modern diesel passes the "General" pulled off onto siding during trip. Line is now part of the Louisville and Nashville system. Originally a wood-burner, the "General" now uses oil.

Drawings from "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War," published 1887. Photos by AP Staff Photographer Horace W. Cort

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND:

LORETTA RUTH BUTLER, 12E Jane
Frazier Village, Cumberland, Maryland,
Maryland
ALONZO OLIN BUTLER, Baltimore,
Maryland

No. 26565 Equity
ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce A VINCULO MAT-RIMONI for the Plaintiff, Loretta Ruth
Butler, of Allegany County, Maryland, against her husband, Alonzo Olin Butler, whose last known address was Baltimore, Maryland.

The bill of Complaint states that on the 15th day of November, 1948, the parties were married in Oakland, Garretts County, Maryland, and that on the 8th day of January, 1957, the said
Alonzo Olin Butler deserted and abandoned the complainant without just cause; that said separation and desertion has continued without interruption for more than eighteen months and is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation.

The Complainant seeks custody of seven children born as a result of said marriage.

It is thereupon this 27th day of April,
1962, Ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once each week for four successive weeks before the 28th day of May, 1962, giving notice to the said Alonzo Olin Butler of the object and substance of this bill of Complaint and warning him to be and appear in this court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 29th day of June, 1962, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Church Council For Cumberland Area Is Formed

Rev. Russell Fink Is Named President

The Council of Churches of Allegany County and Vicinity was organized here yesterday afternoon by representatives of 21 area churches.

The meeting was held in the Emmanuel Episcopal Church parish house and followed some 18 months of discussion and planning.

About 70 members of the participating churches attended the organizational meeting.

Accomplishments included the adoption of a constitution and the election of officers.

The council will be affiliated with the Maryland Council of Churches of Christ and will automatically become a part of the national council.

Elect Officers

Rev. Russell E. Fink, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Cumberland, was elected president of the council.

Robert Little Ebert, 826 Mt. Royal Avenue, was elected first vice president.

Rev. H. Martin P. Davidson, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, Frostburg, was named second vice president.

Mrs. George A. Hazen, wife of the pastor of Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, was named secretary, and Edward L. Ewald, 734 Fayette Street, was elected treasurer.

Several committee chairmen were appointed at the meeting. They include:

Christian education—Rev. Robert B. Logan, minister of Christian Education, St. John's Lutheran Church.

Christian life and work—Rev. William J. Cox, vicar of Holy Cross Episcopal Church.

Christian mission—Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

Head Committees

Christian administration—Mrs. E. E. Miller, wife of the pastor of First Evangelical United Brethren Church here.

Appointed as a representative of the United Church Women was Mrs. George Alexander, city.

Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, read the report of the nominating committee and greeted the delegates.

Plans were made to hold the next meeting this fall.

Mrs. Getty Dies In Hospital

Mrs. Verna S. Getty, Lonaconing, mother of State's Attorney James S. Getty and Gorman E. Getty, local attorney, died yesterday morning in Sacred Heart Hospital.

A native of Lonaconing, she was the daughter of the late James and Catherine (McIndoe) Schuler and the widow of Dr. Gorman Getty. She is also survived by another son, John O. Getty, of Lonaconing.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Edith Craze, LaVale, and Mrs. Catherine Stafford, Las Vegas, Nev., and seven grandchildren.

Pittsburgh Church Group Holds Outing At Airport

The Young Adults Group of Third Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, were guests of local soaring enthusiasts at the Cumberland Municipal Airport yesterday.

About 30 members of the group attended, and at least half of them took their first glider rides with John F. Wagner, Ridgeley, and Franklin H. Young, Pinto.

Members of the group held a steak cookout before driving back to Pittsburgh.

Richard Huppertz, program chairman for the group, was in charge. A Westinghouse staffer, he has been coming for more than a year to fly a plane he shares with two other Pittsburgh men.

In the group were Bruce Thomas, moderator of the church, and Mrs. Thomas, and Rev. Joseph Heckel, assistant pastor, a former missionary to Alaska.

Three Pittsburgh pilots flew here for the outing. They included Dr. Paul McKee, who flew here with his wife in a Lake Amphibian, a plane rarely seen in this area.

Student Nurses Get Disaster Instruction

Joint Red Cross, Memorial Project

For the past several months senior student nurses at Memorial Hospital have received disaster instruction in a program worked out with the joint cooperation of the hospital staff and Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross.

Red Cross home nursing training and first aid were integrated in the regular nursing curriculum to better prepare graduates to cope with disaster situations when only limited facilities and equipment are available.

Working on the program were Mrs. Gladys Brooks, director of nursing, and Mrs. Ruth Dennis, clinical coordinator, of the hospital staff; Mrs. Sara G. Lindsay, executive secretary, and Miss Mary Margaret Smith, home nursing chairman, of Allegany County Chapter; Harrell Dial, safety service director, Miss Joan Leland, nursing representative and Miss Mary West-ton, assistant director of nursing, all of Red Cross Eastern Area field office, Alexandria, Va. Part of the Red Cross instruction was given by members of the hospital staff.

This month Miss Leland gave a five day, ten-hour course in home nursing to qualify students as home nursing instructors.

Instruction Completed

All instruction was concluded Friday with a disaster workshop for seniors, graduate nurses and the hospital staff, conducted by Miss Leland. Miss Leland has been assigned by Red Cross on a number of disasters, most recently to the east coast region.

The purpose of the workshop was to prepare the hospital and its staff to meet emergencies arising from disasters.

Allegany County Chapter is making plans to hold a county-wide disaster seminar here in the fall. The seminar originally was scheduled for March but had to be canceled at that time because of flood disaster on the Eastern coast.

Twenty-four seniors were in the class taking the combined instruction. Of these, 17 took the Red Cross home nursing instructors course.

During a program at conclusion of the classes, Robert L. Ebert, Allegany County Chapter chairman, spoke briefly expressing the chapters' appreciation for the cooperation of the hospital in bringing this training to the community.

Mrs. Lindsay explained the chapter's disaster organization, its function, and operation.

Certificates Presented

Certificates were presented to the students by Mrs. Edward Naughton, chapter chairman of volunteers, who told how volunteer service fits into the disaster program.

Receiving certificates were Lois Ann Glessner, Sandra Kesner, Beverly Deaner, Nancy Swager, Janet Bechtol, Mary Alice Schrock, Rebecca Haines, DeAnn Welschone, Kitty Taylor, Connie Crissey, Shelia Evans, Dorothy Platt, Sandra Gurtler, Lois E. Humbertson, Sally Gay Runion, Susanne Miller, Linda Marie Gerowski, Patricia Harvey, all of whom took the home nursing instructor course; Marilyn Crabtree, Joan Meyer, Ruth Elaine Stuck, Lois Miller, Patricia McCrary, Linda Lois Loar and Mrs. Ruth Dennis.

6 Area Men In 'Quick Kick'

Six area sailors took part in Exercise Quick Kick, a joint training operation held May 7-10 at Camp Lejeune, N. C., by more than 40,000 men, 370 aircraft and 70 ships of the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps.

Two area men are aboard the dock landing ship USS Spiegel Grove. They are W. F. Rolley, engineerman third class, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Rolley, 719 Patterson Avenue, and John M. Copeland, seaman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Copeland, Elk Garden, W. Va.

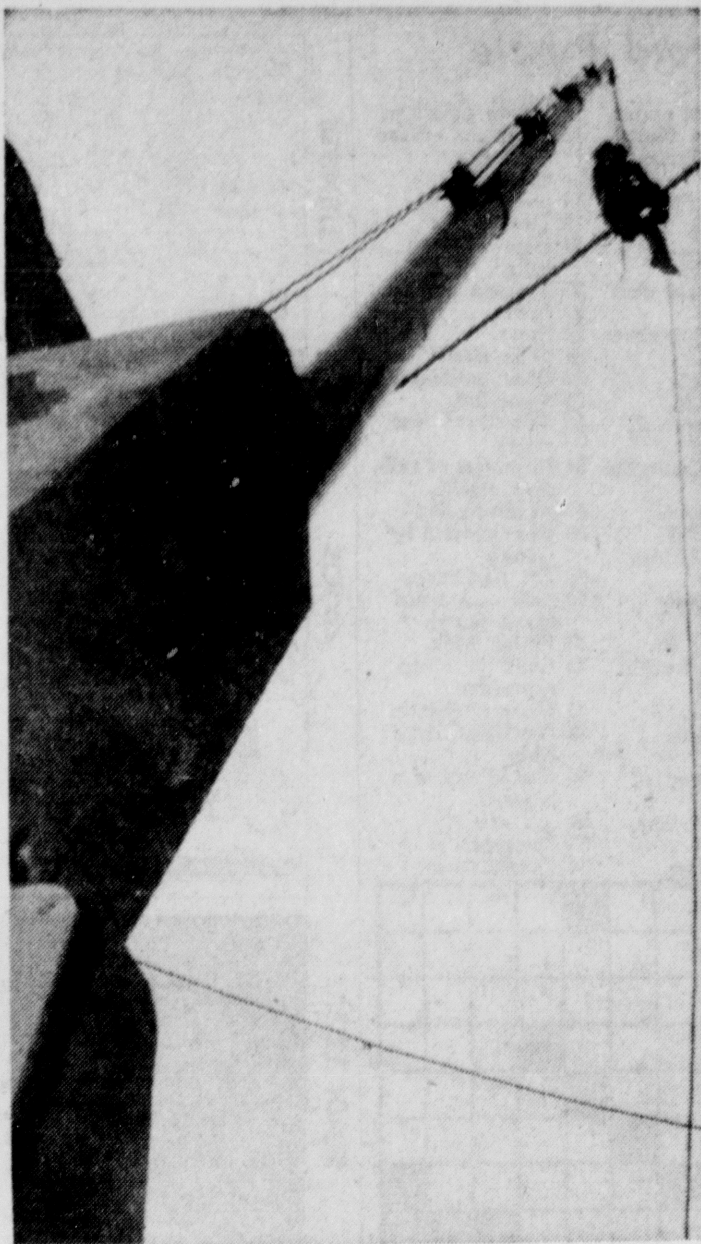

Two others are aboard the dock landing ship USS Donner. They are Virgil Marrale, commissaryman third class, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Marrale of Valley Road, and Delton J. Barbe, seaman, son of Mrs. Agnes Barbe, 406 Franklin Street.

The Health and Research Services Foundation is designed to meet all the health and research needs of Allegany and Mineral counties through single annual pledges by citizens of the two counties.

The HR&SF also spent $16,338.36 for direct medical aid to individuals who could not meet their own needs, or found other community resources insufficient.

HR&SF was able to do this, Dr. Mirkin said, through $30,000 allocated to its budget by County United Fund supplemented by nearly $3,000 from the Kelly Employees' Fund.

Dr. Mirkin has been succeeded as president by Dr. Donald B. Grove, Cumberland surgeon.

CUF Health Unit Aids Hospitals, Needy Patients

More than $6,000 was spent for hospital equipment and medical programs in Allegany and Mineral counties by the Health and Research Services Foundation of County United Fund, according to the agency's 1961 report submitted by Dr. A. J. Mirkin, former agency president.

In addition, the report stated that $10,000 was expended for vitally important research programs at the School of Medicine, University of Maryland, and the Medical Center of West Virginia University.

Among the special grants made, which totaled $6,045.00, Cumberland's Memorial Hospital received $1,933.00 for a modern maternity delivery table. This was made possible, Dr. Mirkin said, through a special additional gift from the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company's Employees' Charity Fund.

The same Kelly fund also made possible a gift of $1,036.00 for a modern records system at Frostburg's Miners Hospital.

Miners also was the recipient of $1,038 for an E & J Resuscitator, cystoscope, and micro-hemotocrit centrifuge.

Makes Research Grants

The monthly referral tumor clinic, with Dr. Fernando G. Bloedorn of the University of Maryland School of Medicine as consultant, received $1,319.

The Mineral County polio vaccine program was aided by a $299 allocation, and $400 was spent for a Mineral County chest clinic for which Dr. James H. Walker of Charleston, W. Va., served as consultant.

Of the $10,000 expended for research grants, $5,000 each went to University of Maryland and West Virginia University. The grant to University of Maryland School of Medicine was for the study of the complex effects of radiation on both malignant and normal cells in order to understand more clearly why and how effective use of radiation therapy can and does cure cancer.

Separate, identical amounts of $2,500 went to the WVU Medical Center.

One was for the study of toxemia of pregnancies, one of the leading cause of maternal and fetal morbidity and mortality, and the study of Hydatidion compounds and their effects in the toxic patient.

Includes Direct Aid

The other grant to WVU was for the diagnostic and research program in hematology and oncology, intimately related to and concerned with the mechanisms of blood cell production and destruction of blood cell elements; investigation of new diagnostic possibilities in solid tumors of children, and a continuing evaluation of therapeutic regimes in all of these fields with particular emphasis on the new cancer chemotherapy drugs.

Oral Vaccine Briefing Tonight

A briefing session for doctors and lay workers in the oral vaccine program of the Allegany-Garrett County Medical Society will be held at 9:30 p. m. today in Memorial Hospital nurses home.

The third dose of Sabin oral polio vaccine will be distributed free to all who want it during the last three days of this week.

School children whose parents complete registration forms will receive the vaccine at their schools on Thursday.

Sixteen dispensing centers will give the vaccine to all comers on Friday and Saturday. Locations of the centers and hours of operation will be announced later.

Church Youth Hold Service

Emmanuel Episcopal Church observed Episcopal Young Churchmen's Sunday yesterday with a service at 11 a. m., conducted almost entirely by young people of the congregation.

This was the third successive year that such a service has been conducted.

Milnor Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Roberts, 24 Ridge Terrace, delivered the address at the Youth Sunday service.

James Crump officiated during the Morning Prayer service. The scripture lessons were read by Linda Gibbs and Kristen Johnson. Raymond Wills was the crucifer. Jack Sellers and Richard Johnson were the acolytes. David Twigg, David Whitworth, Gregory Shaffer and Mickey Thomas were ushers. James Diamond served as junior sexton and Anne Avirett, Sue Beyer, Harlan Dickey and Barbara Chaney constituted the Altar Ward.

Kathy Verdery played a French horn solo for the prelude and the offertory anthem was sung by the junior choir.

W. Donald Schwanebeck, principal of Oakleigh Elementary School, Baltimore, 1961-1962 president, first vice president.

Mrs. Eleanor Tennant, 717 Louisiana Avenue, principal of Parkside Elementary School, LaVale, second vice president. The position places her in line to become president of the state association for the 1963-64 term.

Donald McLuckie, Frederick County, treasurer.

S. Samuel Sharrow, Baltimore City, secretary.

Appointments include Paul Andrick, principal of Piney Plains School, as area member of the Nominating Committee.

The election was held during a business session Saturday morning. Business included the election and presentation of committee reports.

Optometrists Plan Spring Convention At Deep Creek Lake

The Maryland Optometric Association will hold its spring convention June 9-11 at the Will O' The Wisp resort at Deep Creek Lake in Garrett County.

The three-day session will feature business meetings Sunday and Monday. The Auxiliary unit will meet at the same time.

Dr. David E. Lazerow, Pikesville, president, will preside. Dr. James A. Poland, Frostburg, is general chairman, assisted by Dr. Harold Ashby, Oakland.

Remedial Reading Classes Offered

Mrs. Richard Killen, YMCA Children's Reading Improvement instructor announces there will be additional vacancies in the private instruction periods starting June 16.

Classes are held every Saturday, from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. with each child given an individual time for instruction under the guidance of Mrs. Killen.

As a service to the community, the YMCA offers this course to any interested persons in the Cumberland area.

Rummage Sale Set

St. Margaret's Circle of Emmanuel Episcopal Church will have a rummage sale starting at 7 p. m. Tuesday in the parish house. Mrs. Thomas N. Berry is in charge of the circle.

'Y' Offers Summer Swim Classes For Beginners

Central YMCA will offer a special "all summer" swimming campaign for boys and girls nine years of age and older, according to Lynn Patchin, YMCA physical director.

The swimming campaign will start Monday, June 11, and will run until the end of August. Mr. Patchin says the class is for boys and girls who are not members of the YMCA, but will be provided with a special summer membership rate. This fee may be applied to a regular membership at the end of the summer months.

Swimming campaign instructions for the beginning swimmer will be offered three days a week. The schedule follows: Boys on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday at 9 a. m. until 10 a. m. Girls on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9 a. m. until 10 a. m.

Instruction will be given by Mr. Patchin and his staff of YMCA certified instructors. During this period, the boy or girl may advance up the "progressive ladder" of YMCA progressive swimming skills. These steps are: Beginners, Advanced Beginners, and Swimmers. Within the Swimmers stage of development are four different steps: Minnows, Fish, Flying Fish, and Shark.

Alfalfa Weevils, Pea Aphids Busy

Joseph M. Steger, Allegany County farm agent, has been receiving calls from farmers who say that alfalfa weevil and pea aphid are prevalent.

For the most effective control of alfalfa weevil, said Mr. Steger, spray each acre with one pound actual malathion and one and one half pounds actual methoxychlor. To obtain one pound of malathion use one and one half pints of five pound/gallon liquid or one pint of eight pound/gallon liquid. For one and one half pounds methoxychlor, use three quarts of two pound/gallon liquid.

The spray should be applied in 25 gallons of water per acre and not used less than seven days before cutting.

Doctors Oppose King-Anderson Bill, Back MAA

Bi-County Society Issues Statement

The Allegany-Garrett County Medical Society announced its opposition yesterday to the King-Anderson bill providing for hospital care for persons over 65 drawing Social Security benefits.

Officers of the society conducted a postcard poll of the 78 member physicians. Of the 45 doctors who responded, 44 expressed opposition to King-Anderson.

The society's statement follows: "The Allegany-Garrett County Medical Society opposes the King-Anderson bill because it would adversely affect the practice of medicine, the welfare of patients, and the future of medical care in the country. The society does not favor the bill because:

"1. It would not cover the 4,500,000 aged not enrolled in Social Security; these people would get nothing, regardless of their health and financial problems.

"2. It would not be limited to helping those who need help. It would pay the bills for many individuals able to pay their own way.

"3. It would not favor the low-income worker. It would require everyone, regardless of income, to pay the same amount of tax at the same rate.

"4. It would not take into consideration the money already paid into private health insurance now held by 9,000,000 aged, which is 53 percent of the total population over 65 years of age.

Limitations Cited

"5. It would not provide for medicine used outside the hospitals.

"6. The bill provides that only certain drugs and biologicals may be prescribed if payment for the same is to be made by the federal government. These drugs and biologicals will be only those included in the 'U. S. Pharmacopoeia,' 'National Formulary,' and 'New and Non-Official Remedies.' Now, the 'U. S. Pharmacopoeia' is only revised every 10 years, the last edition being published in 1960; the 'National Formulary' and 'New and Non-Official Remedies' are revised every 5 years, the last editions being published in 1960. Therefore, it is years before new, modern and useful drugs find their way into these publications after they are introduced.

"The society, therefore, feels the doctor's choice of drugs to be prescribed for the aged beneficiary is accordingly limited and regulated.

"7. It would not cover all hospital costs. It provides a $90 'deductible' with the patient being required to pay $10 a day for hospitalization for each of the first nine days in the hospital.

"8. It would not pay the entire cost for out-patient diagnostic service. The patient would have to pay the first $20 on diagnosis.

"9. It would not pay dental bills.

"10. It would not cover treatment from the doctor at his office or at the home.
